Why is Newfoundland and Labrador a good place to consider when relocating?

Newfoundland and Labrador is a very safe, beautiful part of Canada that still has a very reasonable cost of living, a low crime rate, and a lifestyle that holds fast to traditional family and community values. There are lots of winter sports (skiing, ice fishing, skating, snowboarding, ice hockey, snowmobiling, etc.) and endless summer activities (golfing, baseball, soccer, swimming, jogging, sea kayaking, etc.). It is the perfect place to work and raise a family. The culture speaks for itself in terms of hospitality, talent and unique identity.

Have a look at the following web sites and see for yourself why Newfoundland and Labrador is such a wonderful place to live:

<http://www.newfoundlandlabrador.com>;

<http://www.explorelabrador.nf.ca>;

<http://www.wordplay.com>;

What kind of weather can I expect?

The weather in Newfoundland and Labrador is constantly changing, but we like to describe it as `moderate` because it never gets so hot that air conditioning is a must, nor so cold to limit enjoyment in outside activities. Our summers are beautiful with temperatures that are perfect for a stroll along the beach or a dip in the pool and barbecues in the back yard. We have a natural attraction to organized sport and most people, especially the children, participate in a variety of activities throughout the year. The fall is beautiful with the leaves changing to bright reds and flaming oranges before falling off the trees. When winter arrives you can expect lots of snow and every winter sport imaginable! When the ground is blanketed in snow the scenery is breathtaking. Although the spring is late, the snow melts quickly, flowers start to bloom, and everything starts coming to life after five months of winter.

You can view the current weather conditions and answers to some of your questions at this web site:

If I come to Canada to live and later determine my eligibility to work as a physician, how long can I be away from practicing in my profession?

This is a very important question and may vary from province to province in Canada. It is best answered by the professional licensing authority In Newfoundland and Labrador, time out of → practice is considered seriously when a CV is being reviewed for licensure. It is best that you have practiced in a licensed capacity in the specific area of practice within the year of application. Significant lapses in practice experience can impact eligibility for licensure or can mean that you will need access to a training opportunity like the Clinical Skills Assessment and Training Program. This is not a program that you can apply for directly, but the licensing authority may recommend you to this program if your circumstances meet the criteria.

I am interested in positions that are not yet posted, but rather a forecasting of what might be available in the next few years. Who can provide that information?

Physicians are strongly encouraged to forward an electronic copy of their CV along with an indication of when they would consider relocating to the Provincial Physician Recruitment Office at shann@mun.ca or faxing a copy to 709 777-8296. This will initiate regular communication that will allow us to contact you as vacancies become available just in case the opportunity is the one you would like to discuss further. You can also indicate an interest in regular updates on the <http://www.practiceNL.ca> website. Specific questions about locations or disciplines can also be forwarded and the information you need will be researched and provided.

What is the remuneration and benefits for locums in Newfoundland and Labrador?

Physicians interested in locum opportunities can register for regular updates on locum availability or simply forward an electronic copy of your CV for circulation to all or select health authorities in the province. The listing of current locum opportunities are posted here on <http://www.practiceNL.ca>. In fact we can list your name as being available on the section and this will alert private clinics of your availability. Effective October 1, 2007 the remuneration for locum services is as stated in the Memorandum of Agreement, $662.00 per 24-hour day. If you cover a weekend, meaning Friday beginning at 4 p.m., all day Saturday and Sunday, you are paid an additional $433.00 for the Friday and the locum day amount of $662 for Saturday and again for Sunday. The benefits may vary per region, but usually include travel, accommodation, meals and transportation. Some Health Authorities will also reimburse locum licensing fees. Effective October 1, 2007, remuneration for Specialists is $732 per 24-hour day.

I am interested in arranging site visits to more than one community, what is the best way to organize a multi-site visit?

We do not have a formal process for arranging a multi-site visit, however the Provincial Recruitment Office would be happy to help facilitate such a visit through the Regional VPs of Medical Services. Please call (709) 777-6031 to discuss potential locations and site visit dates.

I want to return to post-graduate studies, is there funding that can help me make that transition?

Physicians practicing in Newfoundland and Labrador who wish to return to post-graduate studies can apply for the Travelling Fellowship Program sponsored by the Department of Health and Community Services. The criteria and the application form can be printed from the "Bursaries" section of this website. Briefly, the program supports physicians who must travel to other provinces for post graduate studies by paying the PGY salary during the period of training. For this program, the specialty you are → considering must also be recognized as a discipline needed in the province. Physicians must negotiate such an arrangement with the university program of their choice. There is a return in service commitment required by the province. Successful applications are determined through a committee structure.

Physicians who intend to study at Memorial University of Newfoundland and Labrador can apply the Special Funded Program that is co-sponsored by MUN Post-graduate Studies and the Department of Health and Community Services. http://www.med.mun.ca/pgme/pages/special_funded.htm

I want to join a primary care clinic, please advise of the primary health care team areas in the province.

Primary Health Care in Newfoundland and Labrador falls under the mandate of Public Health and Population Health. At the present time the Primary Health Care Initiative in Newfoundland and Labrador has 8 Primary Health Care Team Areas with more in the planning stages for the next few years.

If you would like to notify any of these PHCTA of your interest, please contact the VPs of our Primary Health Care Team Areas directly:

WESTERN: Heather Taylor
heathertaylor@westernhealth.nl.ca

LABRADOR/GRENFELL: Diane Alyward
diane.alyward@lghealth.ca

CENTRAL: Rosemarie Goodyear
rosemarie.goodyear@centralhealth.nl.ca

Or contact the Provincial Physician Recruitment Office (shann@mun.ca) who can facilitate presentation of your CV to these Team Areas on your behalf.

I want to advertise a position at my clinic, how can you help with the promotion of the vacancy?

You can post the practice information about your vacancy directly to this website. This will automatically enter the vacancy on the provincial website, This site is continuously promoted to Canadian Residents in Post Graduate Programs across the country.

I want to meet with residents, how can you help me organize a recruitment meeting?

Physicians who want to promote an opportunity are encouraged to schedule a visit with Family Medicine Residents after their Core Content study day at the Medical School once a month. This is an opportunity to provide detailed information about your clinic to the residents who are completing rotations in St. John's and surrounding areas. Please contact the Provincial Physician Recruitment Office at 777-6031 to discuss potential dates.

Can you provide the contact information for recruitment staff in each health authority?

The recruitment staff in each of the four regions are as follows:

VP, Medical Services
Phone: (709) 777-1378 | Fax: (709) 778-6307

What is the physician recruitment strategy for the province?

Newfoundland and Labrador is particularly focused on graduates of MUN Medical School and MUN Post-graduate Residency Programs. The province, in cooperation with the medical school and the regional health authorities have established a Provincial Physician Recruitment Office within MUN Medical School. The role of the Coordinator is to identify opportunities to demonstrate to students, residents and alumni that the province is actively recruiting throughout their entire training and career. Our provincial physician recruitment statistics clearly indicate that our best retention experience has been with our own graduates. These physicians have contributed to all aspects of our health care system and represent the physicians who practice in the province for extended periods, if not all, of their career.

Each of our Regional Health Authorities work closely with the provincial office, but also work independently of one another to ensure effective recruitment to specific regions.

Where can I find the most complete list of vacancies in the province, both with private clinics and with regional health authorities?

This website is designed for your convenience. Each Regional Health Authority enters vacancy information directly to this website which means there is no lost time in posting vacancies. However, MUN Residents should not rely only on the list of vacancies presented, but should inform the VP of Medical Services in the particular region of their interest as early as possible, even at the beginning, of your residency program.

There are many issues that delay posting a vacant position, such as pending retirement, new programs, enhanced services and physician mobility. Make sure we know about your personal interest by contacting the Provincial Physician Recruitment Office or initiating direct contact with the VP of Medical Services in the Region that interests you:

Western: Dr. Ken Jenkins (709) 637-5000, Ext: 5168; kenjenkins@westernhealth.nl.ca

Central: Dr. Michael Zuckerman (709) 292-2151; michael.zuckerman@centralhealth.nl.ca

Eastern: Dr. John Guy (709) 777-1378; john.guy@easternhealth.ca

Is it possible to practice in French in Newfoundland and Labrador?

Yes. There are three main concentrations of Francophones in Newfoundland and Labrador: the Port-au-Port peninsula, Western Labrador and the St. John's region. As language of service has been identified as a determinant of health outcomes, all three communities have expressed a need to access a greater number of primary health care services in French. Physicians who are able to speak French would have the opportunity to practice in that language in these three areas, as well as in regions such as Happy Valley-Goose Bay and the Labrador Straits. Furthermore, French-speaking physicians in St. John's also have the opportunity to serve the residents of the French islands of Saint-Pierre and Miquelon who are frequent visitors to hospitals in the capital city. ■
